It just wouldn't seem like summer without the Ozaukee County Fair, which in its 158th year last week and weekend attracted thousands of fair-goers with well-groomed animals raised by 4-H Club members, good food, musical entertainment, fireworks, demolition derbies for adults and children alike and, new to the event this year, a monster truck show.

Making sure her cow was looking her best, Jillian Becker of the Town of Fredonia gave the content-looking animal a good scrub (above). At the livestock auction, Courtney Radtke showed her grand champion beef steer (right).

The county fair featured trucks big and small, like the monster truck that went airborne after crushing cars and the ones driven by youngsters competing in the children's demolition derby.
